

15 memories of mine that I shouldn't forget

In this document I will list some of my memories from a few years ago that I find interesting and hence am documenting, to avoid risking forgetting them forever in a few years.

I am aware that some might think that memories become unreliable after some time, especially after years, and I absolutely agree that this is true in cases of minor details, such as who wore what, what the weather was like, etc.

However, I don't think that this is the case with the core of the memories, for example what someone said or approximately what someone said. In some cases I even remember remembering these memories multiple times in the past when I was thinking about something else.

With this addressed, the list begins.

Memory #1: Back in late 2014, a friend I met on a vacation asked me to not forget him.

Defence: I have footage of that vacation, and this memory simply got inscripted into my mind. I haven't forgotten him.

Memory #2: Back in late 2016, while I was in my house, I told it that I will have to abandon it.

Defence: I thought about moving out back then since me and my parents were moving out. I wasn't sad, but I still said it.

Memory #3: Back when I was returning from a school vacation in early July of 2018, a friend asked me if I “still” have a crush on a girl of our class, and I stated that I never had a crush on her.

Defence: I remembered this memory when some of my friends claimed that during our second school vacation, which took place in late June of 2019 and early July of 2019, I “proposed” to her. This memory refutes this lie.

Memory #4: Back in 2018, I played with my classmates by using pencils as lights of a traffic semaphore, and it was fun.

Defence: I was only that interested in traffic in that way back in 2018.

Memory #5: Back in 2018, I created a traffic game inspired by SpongeBob, and played it with some of my classmates.

Defence: I was only that interested in making games in that way back in 2018.

Memory #6: Back in 2018, one of my classmates thought that “San” in GTA San Andreas is “Sun”, and that it’s always daytime in GTA San Andreas. Me and another classmate corrected him.

Defence: it was only during 2018 that we discussed games that way.

Memory #7: Back in 2018, me and my childhood best friend filmed ourselves playing GTA San Andreas and talking.

Defence: it was only during 2018 that we discussed games that way.

Memory #8: Back in 2018, me and my childhood best friend attempted to film a movie involving a police chase.

Defence: it was only during 2018 that I was interested in making that type of movie.

Memory #9: Back in early 2019, me, my childhood best friend and our two friends rode our bicycles together through our city.

Defence: I remember looking at my phone at a video that I was filming, which I filmed that day.

Memory #10: Back in May of 2019, me, my childhood best friend and our two friends attempted to make a horror movie which involved a train.

Defence: I remember it.

Memory #11: On July 23rd of 2019, I met a boy at the playground of our elementary school that looked very similar to me, and I named him my “clone.”

Defence: I remember that I looked into my gallery while he was there and saw the present date marked as “July 23rd of 2019” after filming a video at the playground while he was there. I remember remembering this multiple times.

Memory #12: Back in the third quarter of 2019, I played Hello Neighbour with my childhood best friend and our two friends. At one point we didn’t know where we placed something, the tall friend from the two other friends of mine suggested we “review the film” and I remembered where it was and said where it was.

Defence: I remember that we only enjoyed Hello Neighbour like during that epoch.

Memory #13: Back in late 2019, I had a dream in which there was a gas giant, a commentator, then a playthrough of Hello Neighbour, and then a picture from the interesting book that I read back in 2011.

Defence: I remember it and then remembering it multiple times.

Memory #14: Back in late 2019 I had a dream in which the moon was shaped like a circular mint piece.

Defence: I remembered it multiple times.

Memory #15: Back in early 2020, when the pandemic began, I downloaded the PDF homework files I had, converted them to PNG files and then filled them. My parents praised me for this.

Defence: I remember that it had to be at that time, and how my parents praised me.

NOTE: these aren't all of my memories from their periods, I have more, but these are those that I feel like are at the highest risk of being forgotten by me unlike the rest of my old memories.